

Take control of your health care decisions.

A health care plan combining cost savings with flexibility.

A Health Savings Account (HSA) gives you more flexibility and control over your health care costs. That's because it empowers you to make your own health care decisions.

Use pre-tax dollars to pay for future medical expenses.

You will be able to deduct your contributions to your HSA, and the account earnings will accumulate on a tax-deferred basis. Best of all, distributions from your HSA are tax-free if they are used for qualified medical expenses.

Opening your HSA.

To open an HSA, you must select a high-deductible health plan. The major advantage of a high-deductible plan is lower premiums. Contributions and plan deductible limits change frequently so consult your tax professional regarding your individual circumstances.

Account balance is carried over.

Unlike contributions to a flexible spending account, the balance of your HSA at the end of the year is carried over to the next year. So you're not placed in a position of having to "use it or lose it" each year.

Protection from catastrophic medical costs.

The high-deductible health plan provides you with protection from catastrophic medical costs, and an HSA provides you with a source of funds to pay for all of the costs not covered by the health plan.

Control and flexibility.

An HSA enables you to take control of your health decisions. And since you are the owner of your HSA, it doesn't matter what your job status is or whether your employer makes contributions to your plan. You will always follow you.
